ATTEMPTS ALIBI

Trial Today of Man Accused of the Murder of Hiram Honeycutt
Last Month Attracts Much Interest

Vernon Edmonds, on trial for alleged murder of Hiram Honeycutt, is attempting to establish an alibi by proving he was at his home at the time the crime was committed. Added to his own statements to this effect are those of his relatives who claim he did not leave the house during the night.

Testifying in his own behalf this afternoon, he told of his movements throughout the day Friday preceding the night of the fatal shooting. He told of being at various places among which were the Honeycutt home during the late morning hours. He stated that he subsequently came through town and went to his home near the Columbia mines on the bus.

He seemed reluctant to fix even approximately the time of any of his actions during the day. He was somewhat confused in his testimony, though did not appear to be excited. Mrs. Mary Proffitt, mother of Edmonds, stated that he had come in between 7 and 8 o'clock on Friday night, that he had gone to bed and, to her knowledge, did not get up until the officers came to arrest him Saturday morning.

P. D. Lee and Barton Crosby, bus driver, testified to having the defendant as a passenger on Friday. Frank Poore, patient at the Broshier-Brunnifell hospital at the time the dying statement was made, substantially corroborated the circumstances under which the dying statement was taken.

The trial beginning yesterday afternoon with the reading of Honeycutt's dying statement by B. L. Maddox, notary public, who had written it substantially as the wounded man dictated it. There was some objection to the admission of the statement by the defense but this was overruled.

In the statement, which has previously been made public, Honeycutt stated that he believed Vern Edmonds shot him. He fixed the time of the shooting as soon after the 10:10 train ran on the night of February 8. The statement was made Saturday morning. Mr. Maddox stated that Honeycutt died during the afternoon.

Ada Humphrey, a neighbor of the deceased, was the next witness. She stated that Edmonds had been at her home Friday morning and that he had asked where the Honeycutts lived.

Neighbors Witnesses
Sani Hill, who lives near the overhead bridge in Slaton, stated that Edmonds had inquired at his house about 9 o'clock Friday morning of the location of Honeycutt's house. He testified that Edmonds was wearing a light rain-coat.

Esko Smith testified as to the axe left in front of Carroll's house on the night of the shooting. "Mrs. Kate Honeycutt said to keep the axe, that it would be a good witness," he stated. Charlie Carroll next testified that the axe had been left in front of his house. It was later taken to the Honeycutt home and identified as the one which belonged there, it was said.

A small personage bearing the name Theodore Roosevelt Goodman testified that he thought he heard the shooting that night. He said he didn't think much about it as "there is all the time some one shooting in Slaton." "After I got there, Honeycutt said he believed he would die and that he thought Vern Edmonds shot him," the witness testified. He fixed the time of the shooting at 1:40 o'clock Saturday morning and said he arrived at the house about a half hour later. "Mrs. Honeycutt said she had an idea who did the shooting but I did not ask her who it was," Goodman declared.

Pollington Testify
Jim Lawrence testified to substantially the same things though he admitted on cross examination that he had no way of knowing the identity of the murderer did not come directly from (Continued on last page)

AUDITORIUM OF L. M. U. BURNS

Fire at 10 a. m. Today Totally Destroyed Building—No Insurance

The auditorium at Lincoln Memorial university burned about 10 o'clock this morning. It was just before chapel hour when the flames were discovered and it is presumed that the fire started from one of the stoves.

The auditorium was built by student help twenty years ago as a temporary structure with a saw-dust floor. Later when it became evident that the structure would be used for several years, lights were installed and the building made weather proof. Because of the condition of the tin structure it was found insurance was prohibitive. The piano, chairs and the picture of Lincoln and Howard around which many traditions of the school are built were valued at $2,000.

No arrangements have been made for another chapel room as there is no place large enough for the meeting of the students now available.

TEST LEGALITY OF BOND ISSUE

Anxious to Get All Possible Objections Out of Way
Soon

The following statement to the Kentucky state press is issued by the Kentucky Good Roads Association: "Preparations are being made by the legal advisors of the Kentucky Good Roads Association to test the constitutionality of the $75,000,000 bond issue law which went into effect when signed by the Governor last Friday.

This step is being taken in accordance with the wishes of the governor, and in a short time necessary action will be brought in the Franklin Circuit court. On account of the general importance of this litigation, every effort will be made to secure its consideration by the court as soon as practicable. After a decision is secured in the circuit court here, the case will be promptly carried to the court of appeals for final determination.

THINK TYPHOID EPIDEMIC NOW UNDER CONTROL

Four Deaths Have Resulted From 50 Dangerous Cases

STUDENT NURSE

Sick Have Received Best of Care—
Neighboring Towns Very Concerned—Cause of Disease Still Unknown

HARROGATE, Tenn., Mar. 12.—A new course of study has been added to the curriculum at Lincoln Memorial University, that of personal and home hygiene. This instruction will be in charge of a resident nurse who will begin her work with the University this summer. She will also have charge of looking after the physical welfare of the students and will direct a health center at the University.

That the conditions of the sick students is improving is the belief of the doctors and nurses in charge who say that, if no complications arise, the epidemic may be considered well under control.

The epidemic began at the University on February 3, when it was reported that eighteen girls at Norton Hall were ill, apparently with the "flu." At the same time several scattering cases of the same nature were reported at both the boys' dormitories. The doctors were called and after being in constant attendance on the ill students for several days announced that the illness was typhoid. In the meantime, the third floor of Norton Hall was turned into an infirmary and all the patients isolated therein. An urgent call for nurses was turned into Knoxville, which, owing to a great deal of illness, could not let us have the number needed. Finally thirty nurses in all were secured from the neighboring cities of Chattanooga, Lexington, Louisville, Bristol and Cincinnati.

Four Have Died

Of the fifty dangerously sick students, four have died: Miss Ruth Newman of Clairfield, Tenn.; Allen Pettigrew of Lafayette, Ga.; Larkin Buell of Jonesville, Va., and Harvey Gardner of Shelby, N. C.

The best medical attention obtainable has been given the students. Dr. J. H. S. Morison and Dr. J. M. Hamilton are the physicians in charge and during the worst stages of the epidemic remained on the campus night and day. At the first suggestion of typhoid at the University, the Board of Health in Nashville was notified and Roy J. Morton, sanitary engineer, was sent to investigate conditions. He spent three weeks on the grounds and later was joined by Dr. Fred C. Childwell, state chemist. Together they followed up every clue as to what caused the epidemic. A recent report from Mr. Morton has verified the belief that it was not caused by the water which comes from King Solomon's Cave under the Pinnacle. Mr. Morton in his report says, "The water is undoubtedly at this time of extremely good sanitary quality. Evidence that the water supply was not responsible is conclusive." Of the milk he says, "It is believed that the milk, most especially from the University and the Williams Dairy is handled with more than ordinary care and is reasonably safe." Although the final results of the investigations are not yet known, the examination is expected to substantiate the belief that the disease originated from a human carrier and that it was in no way due to sanitary conditions at the university.

Friends Were Generous

At the first news of distress at the University, friends in neighboring towns began to send in contributions to aid in alleviating the suffering among the students. Much needed hospital supplies such as bed linens, towels, sterilized cloths, bed pads, ice bags, hot water bottles, were sent as well as several generous money donations. The largest money donation came from the Barnea Class of the First Baptist Church of Middlesboro, Kentucky. The Red Cross, through its representatives, has given assistance, especially in providing nurses. Miss Jane Van de Vreke, director nursing of the Southern Division of the Red Cross, at Atlanta, Ga., has been on constant duty here for the past three weeks supervising the Red Cross activities at the University. The Kiwanis Club of Middlesboro in addition to sending several cases of fruit also paid half the price of a washing machine that the laundry for the students might be attended to on the grounds.

Classes are going on according to schedule and there has been no diminishing of the school activities. With the opening of the new term of March 24, many of the students who went home on account of the epidemic are expected to return.

The University authorities are taking all possible measures to prevent a chance for a return of the disease, and to provide for the new students who may come in for the new term.

HUNT'S WASHINGTON LETTER DEADLOCK MAY PUT BOTH PARTIES IN; PRESIDENT OF ONE, VICE ANOTHER

WASHINGTON, Mar. 13.—The scrambled state of affairs in Washington, mental, governmental and political, could not be better illustrated than by the fact that it is actually suggested that the presidential election this fall may result in the choice of a president of one political party and a vice-president of another.

Perhaps you think that isn't possible but it is. Not only possible, say some who have analyzed the situation, but even not improbable, owing to the present line-up in the Senate and House of Representatives. Here's the way they figure it:

With both Republicans and Democrats in only fair favor with a great body of voters, the possibility that an independent presidential ticket carrying half a dozen or more middle western states, will swing a sufficient block of electors to prevent either of the old parties from having a clear majority, is admitted.

This would throw the election into Congress. And the present Congress, not the one to be elected this fall, would decide.

In a deadlock for the presidency and vice presidency, the House selects the president, the Senate the vice-president.

In the House the vote must be by states, the majority of each state delegation determining how that state's one ballot shall be cast.

Proceedings

Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Mar. 13.—Grand jury proceedings begin here today in the case of the two congressmen referred to in the recent grand jury report as having improperly accepted money. Assistant Attorney General Davis, Willebrandt and Seymour appeared aided by John H. Crim, special assistant, in charge of the case in presentation of evidence.

Willebrandt is in charge of prohibition prosecutions and it is understood some evidence previously produced at Chicago related to alleged irregularities in liquor withdrawals. There is every evidence that the department of justice is prepared to ask for quick grand jury action. Attorney General Daugherty refused to disclose to the house names of the men accused and he apparently is having legal proceedings so that they may not be handicapped by concurrent hearing by the house committee on the same evidence.

One witness called was Elias H. Mortimer, central figure in Veterans Bureau investigation here several months ago and also appeared before Chicago grand jury.

WOULD CHANGE POOR FORK NAME TO CUMBERLAND

HARLAN, Mar. 13.—The name of Poor Fork would be officially changed to Cumberland, by recent action of the state senate. Agitation for this change has been marked for some time, as the citizens of the progressive little town felt that Poor Fork is a very unworthy and inappropriate name.

The bill was introduced in the senate by Senator Hiram Brock of Harlan and passed 35 to 0. If it passes the house as it is indicated it will, the new name will be in effect at once.

TELLS KIWANIANS OF STREET PROGRAM

Next 2 Years to See Big Improvement
—Civic Boosting on Letter
Heads Urged

The Kiwanis club meeting today, though without a leader or speaker, and with a smaller attendance than usual, was very interesting and lively. Several civil plans were discussed and individual Kiwanians were called on for impromptu addresses.

Perhaps the most interesting impromptu talk was by Judge J. E. Evans, city street commissioner, who told the club that the city planned to do enough street improvement in the next ten years, to last ten years, all of it to be financed by the ten year note plan. He also said that the city had plans for putting dirt on the East End parkway and sowing seeds to beautify the middle of this street.

President C. A. Blackburn suggested to the Kiwanians the adoption of the following facts, with limitations or substitutions to go on their letter to the Middlesboro has the second oldest golf course in the United States.

Middlesboro has wider streets than any city in Southeastern Kentucky.

Middlesboro has the best water supply in the state.

Middlesboro has nearly thirty establishments which do wholesale business.

DISTRICT METROPOLITAN OFFICE TO LOCATE HERE

The second vice president and the general manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company held a meeting in Louisville yesterday with the Kentucky managers and decided to place a district office at Middlesboro in place of the sub district office now located here.

This will take in all the territory from Norton, Va., to La Follette, Tenn., and will include all local towns in southeastern Kentucky. W. R. Estep who has been in charge of the detached office here as assistant manager has been promoted to manager of the district.

The district will be officially opened April 7 and will occupy entire floor space in a building somewhere on Cumberland avenue, location to be decided at an early date. This is an enterprising life insurance company and Middlesboro is fortunate to get the district office located here.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Mar. 13.—Turning attention to the use of marines to clear the Teapot Dome of trespassers after it had been leased to Harry Sinclair, the oil committee was told today the order for the marine expedition was issued at the request of Albert Fall. Theodore Roosevelt, as acting secretary of navy, signed the order and said Fall told him President Harding desired that course be pursued. A letter from Harding put into the record indicated that unless James G. Danlen of the Mutual Oil company withdrew from the Teapot he should be ejected.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 13.—Ralph Hynicks, Republican national committeeman from Ohio, was subpoenaed today by the oil committee for questioning in connection with the story of Leonard Wood, Jr., about the attempted oil deal at the Republican National Convention in Chicago, in 1920. Subpoenas also were issued for Harry Mackenzie, attached to President Coolidge, Chicago campaign headquarters, and Tiffin Gilmore, deputy secretary of state of Ohio, Norman J. Gould, of New York and Charles J. Connelley, of Cincinnati, Ohio, for questioning of the same matter.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Mar. 13.—Special government counsel in the Federal court here today asked Rear Admiral Joseph Strauss of the United States navy to be named receiver in the Teapot Dome property.

STATE AID FOR ROADS NEAR HERE

Eastworth Gets Passed Bill Providing Road from Pineville to Williamburg

The following road news is from a Frankfort report on legislative proceedings this week and tells of state aid appropriations for road in this section:

The road project measure fared better at the hands of the representatives. A bill introduced by Representative D. C. Jones, Republican, of Harlan county, adding a road from Harlan to the Virginia State line, ending at St. Charles, Va., to the state primary road system, was passed. So was a similar bill adding to the road from Columbia to the Tennessee state line by way of Clinton, Moscow and Cayce. Representative W. J. Moore, Republican, of Clay county, had two highway bills, both of which were passed. One adds the road from Booneville to East Bernstadt to the primary system and the other the road from McKee, in Jackson county, to Jackson, county seat of Breathitt county, by way of Booneville.

Representative Joe Bonworth, Republican, of Bell county, had a road project bill passed that creates a highway from Pineville to Williamburg by way of Grassy Creek Gap. He also amended the measure to include Clear Creek Mountain Springs along the road. All of the road bills were adopted almost unanimously.

A Thought

Abstain from all appearances of evil.—1 Thess. 5:22.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

THE NATIONAL PARK PROBLEM

This week Kentucky papers carried a number of stories on the advisability of making a national park at Mammoth Cave. The appointment of a park committee makes it seem sure that a park will be established some place in this section and most Kentuckians would like to see it in Kentucky.

The point is brought out that the Mammoth Cave site would probably cost near a million dollars but that funds from the whole state could be collected for its purchase. At any cost it was intimated that the establishment of a national park in Kentucky would be worthwhile.

All of this reminds us of the untimely demise of the plan for a national park at the Cumberland Gap site. Here was a site available at once, not to be waited for, like that of Mammoth Cave until the owners die. Here is a place of great historic interest capable of attracting persons from all over the country. There is the additional feature that a good tract of land has already been donated for such a purpose.

The trouble with it all is that Middlesboro Kivans club seemed to think that it alone was responsible for the park and that its members would have to finance it. The move of the Kivans club in planning for the park received great commendation as have many of their progressive movements. But we are surprised that they should let as great a thing as this drop as it was merely a Middlesboro affair.

"This is a matter that concerns all Kentucky, all of the Appalachian region—as far as that goes, all persons interested in this section. For this reason, financial help could be drawn from an unusually large area if necessary and the Kivans club of Middlesboro would need be only a nucleus for it."

It is really regrettable that the matter has been considered so lightly.

HIGH-HANDED INVESTIGATORS

A trade magazine, wearied with the high-handed manner of the Congressional investigating committees, has the following to say on the matter:

"As we go to press the 'teapot is still boiling' in Washington. Skeletons are being brought forth from the proverbial 'cabinet' and elsewhere, everybody is crooked all but 'me' in the inquisitorial body, 'pure and holy.' The pits of it is not the millions involved but the fact that faith in our public officials is being blasted. In justice to the accused let us condemn no one until all the facts are brought out after we have cooled down a bit. The guilty ones should be punished but character and excellent public service records should not be put into the scrap heap without a hearing and both sides heard impartially. Let us then reserve our opinions until the special council appointed by President Coolidge has had a chance to function and get down to business. Much of the present hysteria will pass away in the coming light of reason and common sense. We hold briefs for nobody. The guilty should be punished whether rich or poor, high or low, but no one should be condemned without a hearing and an opportunity to defend himself. Let justice be done but not in the high handed manner being exercised by the congressional inquisitorial committee."

A CRUEL AND VICIOUS BILL

The editor of the Woodford Sun terms the bill introduced at Frankfort to abolish the state board of charities and corrections a vicious and cruel bill. In a recent editorial on the subject he says:

"The investigation carried on by a legislative committee into the operations of the state board of charities and corrections has not, I think,

TAX FACTS

Every Manufacturer must add his taxes to the selling price of his product.

Every Merchant must add his taxes to the selling price of his goods.

Every farmer must add his taxes to the selling price of his produce.

Every Builder must add his taxes to the selling price of the building he constructs.

Every Railroad must add its taxes to the selling price of passenger tickets and freight charges.

Every Lnadlord must add his taxes to the rents of his houses.

Every Landlord must add his taxes to the selling price of his garments.

It makes no difference whether it's labor, or materials, or service, that is sold, the taxes must be added and they are!

Unless taxes are added to selling price, all industry, farming and business would have to cease.

This is simply the operation of natural law! Everyone must and does pass along taxes to the Consumer. We are all Consumers. Hence everybody pays taxes!

DECREASED TAXES MEAN LOWER COST OF LIVING

any value whatever. It appears to a woman of 74, this being the first time to be propaganda to help that most cruel and vicious bill which proposes to make the state's insane wards and prisoners the sport of politicians.

"So far as mistreatment of insane patients and of convicts in concern, that probably goes on to some extent under any regime. This is terrible, but true. It is extremely unlikely that all asylum attendants and all prison guards could possibly be of a high type. The work is unattractive to most people, yet a sufficient number must be kept on hand every moment of every year, whether they all come up to a certain standard or not.

"Nothing but ceaseless vigilance, not only on the part of superintendents of asylums and the wardens of prisoners, but also on the part of every assistant physician and supervisor in asylums and every assistant to the wardens in the reformatories, can possibly reduce mistreatment to the minimum. Under which system is this vigilance most likely to be maintained? Under the present one, where a number of all the finest men and women in the state, serving as a civic duty without pay, are free to select officials with an eye to only one thing, their efficiency? Or under a law making these officers and positions once more spoils for politicians?

"The passage of this bill would result in unspeakable cruelty and wrong."

A government is a system of checks and balances which tend to become check books and bank balances.

Judging by reports, the oil in Washington must be about knee deep to a telephone pole.

The ex-kaiser is planting a rose garden, which is one way to get your flowers while you are living.

The interest on $70 will amount to $14,000,000 if you can afford to wait 300 years for it.

Power in Prayer

Read Mt. 7:7-11. Text: 7:7. Ask and it shall be given you; seek and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto you.

"All the varied years of human life are calculated to develop enlarging capacity for praying. The long history of life in the earth shows that God has been wanting men to find out the laws of the physical and psychic world and to learn how to work with him in the use of physical and psychic force for the common good."

Meditation: In urging his disciples to seek God, Jesus assured them that they would receive that which their souls needed most. This is not saying but what the search may be long and the seeking multiplied and the knocking continued until we are prepared to make the greatest use of that which God has in store for us.

Personal Question: Have I grown this year through prayer?

Prayer—O merciful God, help us to believe that if we lose sight of thee it is because we turn our eyes from thee. Save us from being easily discouraged in seeking thee. Let us feel about us the inspiration of thy presence. Amen.

EVERETT TRUE—By Condo

Berton Braley's Poem

OVERWORKED

That much abused adjective, "hectic,"

The flapper has grabbed for her own,

To use in a manner eclectic

To qualify everything known;

She seems to have almost a passion

For making it "fit," any noun,

Or characterize every fashion

Of person or party or gown.

"I'm feeling just hectic this morning!"

That party was hectic last night!

And father, today, gave a warning:

"That—well, it was hectic, all right!

I've got a new gown—very 'arty'.

Though awfully hectic in hue!

That new man we met at the party

Is hectic, I think, over you!"

Now here is the humor sardonic;

Consult Mr. Webster, you'll glean

The knowledge that hectic means

"chronic."

Not "brilliant" or "vivid" or

"keen."

But who cares what books say about it?

The flapper does not, I aver,

For hectic's her word, and she'll sprout it

Because it is chronic with her!

NO. 19—THE BAKERMEN'S KITCHEN

Why not lick the bowl now!

"And now," said the bakerman in spreading the thick white stuff all over the cake with a great silver knife.

After that he cut the pink and green gum drops into slices and made a posy of pink flowers with green leaves. All around the edge he wrote "Bouncing Billy."

Nancy and Nick were perched up on the edge of the icing bowl by this time, and when the last bit of gum drop was stuck on and the cake set in the window to cool, the same idea occurred to them both at the same time.

Why not lick the bowl now! They always did at home, and there was a hundred times as much left in this one. And is smelted so very, very tempting!

"Come on," whispered Nick, pinching Nancy's sleeve.

And as Nancy didn't have to be coaxed, the two of them jumped right down inside the bowl and began to gobble icing as though their lives depended on it.

And they ate and ate and ate until it was just too dreadful to talk about.

So they crawled to the top of the bowl and gave a jump. But the bakerman had put a piece of flypaper right there! And they landed in the middle of it.

How they got off I cannot tell you, but it must have been the magic shoes.

Anyway, there they were, sick inside, and all sticky outside, and in a dreadful condition.

"I don't like Beanstalk Land so very well," said Nick faintly.

"Neither do I," agreed Nancy.

door,
Some miracle. For see—
Now shines a wishing-rug, just where
A door-mat used to be!
Far down the street and up the hill
There winds and winds away
A trail that shimmers bright with hoar—
It was not there today!

A carpet, from the silver earth
Up to the silver moon!
Oh, spinners in the lovely night,
Where does it go—at noon?
Your blossoms and your tapestries,
Your laces, life and gay,
Lose all their magic at the dawn,
They are just snow—by day.

DR. LUCIA DANFORTH RE-CEIVES PHI BETA KAPPA KEY

HAIRGATE, Tenn., Mar. 13.—Dr. Lucia Danforth, head of the Modern Language Department of Lincoln Memorial university, yesterday received notice of her election to Phi Beta Kappa at Carleton college, Northfield, Minn., where she did her undergraduate work and later took her Master's degree. Miss Danforth was a student in Carleton college several years ago at a time when a Phi Beta chapter had not been installed. Ten years ago, Beta chapter of Minnesota was installed and since that time, he college has in addition to electing the outstanding students of the current classes to membership in the honor fraternity have also been going through its records and granting the same honors to its alumni. Of Miss Danforth's class, three were given the privilege of wearing the Phi Beta Kappa key, that emblem of superior scholarship and definite achievements.

Miss Danforth also taught in Carleton college for a number of years after her graduation.

Well, fellows, the question of what to wear and when to wear it need trouble you no longer. If you want to dress to knock 'em dead, just take a tip from Steve Hannagan.

Steve sees what's what in the way of clothes as he bowls along Broadway and Fifth Avenue. So the other day he went over to just about the toniest clothes shop in New York City and put on several outfits to let you get a peep at them.

Today he shows you the newest in business wear. From hat to shoes it cost only $79. And it looks like a million, doesn't it?

The two-button English-American model, three-piece suit, the product of a prominent ready-to-wear manufacturer retails at $60 and up. It is of light gray material with pin stripes in colors an inch apart.

The coat is cut broad at the shoulders, small at the hips, has well pockets and no vent. The trousers are wide and may be slipped on or off over the shoes. The vest is roll collar.

The gray hat costs $8 and is extremely serviceable. It can be crushed in various shapes to suit fancy of the wearer.

A collar-attached shirt of plain blue material cost only $1, and a gold-plated collar pin ($1) holds the patterned silk foulard tie ($2) neatly in place.

Plain brogue shoes of pebblegrain, comfortable last, and durable weight are $14.

The only alteration made in any of the outfit was in the length of the trousers.

MAKES FAT PEOPLE SLIM

New York Physician Perfects Harmless Method of Reducing Weight

The loss of as much as a pound of excess fat a day with no harmful results is the record made by many patients of Dr. R. Newman, a licensed practicing physician of 286 Fifth Avenue, New York, who announces that he has perfected a treatment which has quickly rid fat people of excess weight. What is more remarkable is the Doctor's statement that he has successfully treated thousands of patients for fat reduction without change of diet or unnecessary exercise. It is also said that fat people who suffer from chronic rheumatism, gout, asthma and high blood pressure obtain great relief from the reduction of their superfluous flesh. Realizing that this sounds almost too good to be true, the Doctor has offered to send without charge to anyone who will write him a free trial treatment to prove his claims, as well as his "Pay-when-reduced" plan. If you want to rid yourself of superfluous fat, write him today, addressing Dr. R. Newman, 286 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Dept. R.—Advertisement.

THEIR PALACE IS HUMBLE HOME; "KING CHARLEY" HELPS WIFE WITH DISHES

"KING CHARLEY" HELPING HIS WIFE WITH THE DISHES (LEFT). MRS. STEWART IN A DRESS OF HEAVY SATIN, WITH GOLD EMBROIDERY, WORN BY THE STUARTS OF FORMER GENERATIONS, AT COURT.

OAKLAND, Calif., Mar. 12.—A claimant to the English throne washes dishes, mows the lawn about his modest home here and minds the kiddies while his wife goes a-shopping. He is Charles Stewart, descended from the Stuart family which once ruled Britain. According to records handed down for hundreds of years, he should be ruling over Great Britain today.

But only his closest friends know Charles Stewart—that's the way he's spelling his name—for other than an every-day citizen, incognito, he lives in a four-room suite in a double house in a quiet residential section.

For he bowed to the evil luck—the curse of the Stuarts—that has followed his family for generations. A dilapidated trunk, filled with relics that date back to Bonnie Prince Charlie's day and documents authenticating Charles Stewart's legal claims remain as a last trace of his ancestor's old power.

Occasionally Stewart will open this trunk and reverently tell the story of the Royal House to Charles James William, just turned 6, and Robert, going on 3, next in succession should Charles die.

Alfred Irvine Leon Charles Francis Edward James Stewart—that's how he's listed in British records—is recognized as Lord of Achmores and Balmaladach.

It means little, though. Scarcely half a hundred men, women and children dwell on these estates in Scotland today.

Stewart, however, isn't expecting King George to abdicate in his favor. "I could never accept the throne with Ramsay MacDonald in power," he sighs.

"It is gall to us all to see a MacDonald, descended from the strong, old Jacobites, loyal defenders of the House of Stuart, in the role of a labor leader."

Guy Burke won the attendance prize which was donated by J. C. Baughman. On next Monday night the attendance prize will be awarded by C. D. Hooker, of Cady, Wyo., who is now in Middlesboro.

TO PUBLISH 18 OF PEACE PLANS

Representative Selection of Plans Submitted in Contest to Be Printed

Under the title, "Ways To Peace," eighteen of the representative proposals submitted in competition for the American Peace Award will be published by the Committee in charge of the Award, through Charles Scribner's Sons, on March 21st. The Committee in charge has arranged to have the usual royalty divided entirely among the 18 authors. Each of the authors concerned has given the Committee his or her explicit consent to the publication and has expressed good will in so doing. The Committee explained today that these 18 proposals are not presented as in any sense the "best 18 plans." The principle of selection was rather to illustrate as many as possible of the different kinds of approach to the problem of peace. The Committee believes that the public will be interested in seeing these and that they will provoke thought. The names of the authors of the 18 plans will be announced approximately a week from now. The 18 "plans" are said to include recommendations for various revisions of the Permanent Court; proposals for a World Court, dissociated entirely from the League; proposals for conferences, specific or periodic, for the reduction of armaments, the revision of international law, etc.; etc.; recommendations for various types and degrees of cooperation on the part of the United States with the League of Nations; purely economic proposals dealing with international control of trade, raw materials, etc.; plans depending upon educating men and women to think in terms of peace, etc., etc.

The authors of the plans selected come from various parts of the country—from New York to California. Some of the authors are young men who saw service in the world war, some are of mature years, distinguished leaders in various fields. They represent an interesting range with reference to previous experience in international affairs and occupational or professional interests. They include a research chemist, a mining engineer, a churchman, professors of international law, former college presidents, lawyers and journalists. One of the eighteen is a woman.

The office of the Award has received many inquiries concerning the book, indicating a wide interest on the part of the public in knowing the types of proposals submitted.

The book will contain a preface written by Dr. Bok and an introduction by Esther Everett Lape, member in charge of the Policy Committee, who will make a general survey of the ideas and tendencies illustrated in the thousands of plans submitted.

Ancestor Worship

THE Chinese pray to their ancestors. But they do more than that. They allow themselves to be guided by family tradition in their every thought and action. The principal difficulty facing the introduction of the modern improvements into China is the universal objection: "This is not as our fathers did."

Imagine saying that we did not want electricity because our forefathers were satisfied with candles.

Though we never went as far as the Chinese, our conservatism in the past often went to considerable lengths. Think of the telephone, of the motor car. How much encouragement did they get at first?

Advertising more than anything else has made of us a nation willing to judge something new on its merits, rather than on narrow, ancient traditions.

Advertising to-day is as necessary as electricity, sanitation and rapid transit. It is more than the system by which we are kept informed of every improvement that is to our advantage. It is the catalogue wherein, every day, all manner of articles are listed for us with their individual advantages.

Read the advertisements. Be guided by them. They will help you in making your selections. They will save you money.

Reports point to a large number of settlers coming to Canada from Great Britain and Northern Europe and this is expected to be particularly heavy from Scandinavia. No less a Canadian Pacific official the other day, Canada has always welcomed desirable settlers from those countries of Europe whose emigrants are of a type that will go onto the still vacant and very fertile western prairies and develop the Dominion. They are also easily assimilated into Canadian life, the last census showing 167,000 Scandinavians who had become naturalized citizens.

The Canadian Government aided by its railways and stenographic has consummated arrangements with a number of European governments to assist prospective farmers to emigrate to Canada where additional assistance and helpful supervision will be accorded the newcomers. Unemployment has induced the various governments to encourage their own population to become Canadian settlers.

Every trans-Atlantic liner that docks at a Canadian port brings in quota of Scandinavians who are to become Canadian citizens, and who plan to develop Canadian prairies, some as agriculturists, others as miners and lumbermen, and some as commercial travelers. The new immigrants are encouraged to settle in cities in colonies, but will be spread over the vast area of their new homeland. In this way they are thrown with native Canadians and soon adopt the ways of their neighbors.

The newcomers are for the most part of a superior type and they are treated very good treatment in their new homes. The middle-class cabin boats of the Canadian Pacific Steamships are much in demand by these travelers, as the comforts provided aboard ship on the Atlantic passage are so great. Children and unattended women are given special attention by officers. Many a youngster will recall their kindnesses 15 years later.

Among parties of settlers expected to arrive shortly, are between 8,000 and 10,000 Norwegians, some of whom may settle in Quebec. Fifty experienced Dutch farmers with their families will acquire farms in Alberta. Many Scots arrive on every boat and 40,000 Russians are eager to gain admission after learning of the prosperity of friends who have preceded them.

NEWS FROM HARLAN AND VICINITY

HARLAN LEGISLATOR HELP TO SECTION

FRANKFORT, Ky., Mar. 12.—Eastern Kentucky may credit its victories in the 1924 General Assembly to such men as Representative D. C. Jones, Republican, of Harlan county. At the beginning of the session Eastern Kentuckians wished three things might happen: that more good road projects would be authorized to assist in development of eastern counties; and that a production tax on coal would be defeated.

Only in the House was a fight made to bring out a production coal tax bill. For leaders had been counting noses on this issue, and when production tax advocates started to fight they found so much opposition from their better-informed colleagues that they could not get even a first reading on their measures. At the head of Eastern Kentucky forces in this silent battle of weeks' duration was Representative Jones.

Not only did Mr. Jones serve his county and all Eastern Kentucky in the coal fight, but when the $75,000,000 bond issue came before the House he made a most effective speech in its favor. That good roads advocates needed Mr. Jones' influence was shown in the final roll call when the bond issue carried with only one vote to spare.

Every Eastern Kentucky county will benefit from road projects introduced this session. Mr. Jones is concentrating his efforts on a bill to get a state highway from Hyden, Leslie county, to Beverly, by way of Manchester, and the Red Bird-Pineville project. This bill has been favorably reported and has had two readings. By the time this article is in type the measure probably will have received indorsement of the House and be on its way through the Senate.

Perhaps Mr. Jones' most popular speech this session was the one in opposition to the chiropractors' bill. He succeeded in getting this measure amended in the House before it passed. The bill was defeated in the Senate for reasons set forth by Mr. Jones in his House speech on the measure.

H. G. Wells Says School Teachers Are Too Diffident and Ashamed

By Associated Press.
LONDON, Mar. 11.—Schoolmasters, "shy and retiring souls that they are," ought to buck up and be bold and aggressive and take hold of the world, for they are the most important people in the whole civilized community, says H. G. Wells.

When Mr. Wells delivered himself of these opinions, in an address to the annual meeting of the Incorporated Association of Assistant Masters in Secondary Schools, some of the assembled teachers applauded and others laughed.

But Mr. Wells did not laugh. "I want to teach shamelessness to school teachers," he said. "I want to teach them arrogance and aggression. Arrogance and the disposition to take hold of the world is not a characteristic of all schoolmasters. Most of them seem to be conscious of the urgent and range of their functions. They don't seem to realize that the world is not a going concern, but a finished affair in which they have a very subordinate and supplementary part. They are a shy and specialized people who keep together even on their holidays. Then Mr. Wells turned his thoughts

TESTIMONY IN CASE GOES ON

Honeycutt

Policeman Bill White told of how he had been summoned to the place at about 2:30 and of how he had gone back to the city hall and told other night officers who made the arrest. Patrolman Jess Hutton who assisted in the arrest testified that he had been informed that Edmonds did the shooting, that he went to the home of Edmonds.

"His mother, seeing my cap, tried to shut the door but I pushed in by her," the officer stated. He said that Edmonds was in bed with his brother in law, that he told him he was wanted for a felony. He said the defendant's face was black as if he had coal dust on it and that he appeared to be partially intoxicated.

The raincoat which had previously been offered as an exhibit in the Commonwealth next claimed the attention of the jurors. It was identified as that which Edmonds put on after the arrest and similar to the one he had been wearing on the previous day.

"What is there on the sleeve near the end," the prosecuting attorney asked.

Bloody Finger-Prints

"Bloody finger prints," the witness stated, and black marks farther up. The defense stoutly objected at the obvious conclusion of the witness.

The coat was exhibited to the jury, however. The prints were noticeable as were also the black places.

Frank Crabtree, policeman who assisted in the arrest, corroborated substantially the testimony of Mr. Hutton. He had also gone to the scene of the shooting and he testified that the victim had accused Edmonds.

Mrs. Kate Honeycutt who took the stand this morning was very emphatic in her accusation of Edmonds. She gave a dramatic description of the fatal shooting in which her husband was killed and her three years old daughter wounded.

"I don't know what time it occurred," she stated, "as we have no clock. I was awakened by some one holding my hand. The man was Vern Edmonds. He had a flashlight and a pistol."

She stated that he fired twice and that Hiram Honeycutt raised in bed. Then the intruder ordered him to lie back down, cursing and threatening to kill them all. She stated she did not know how many shots were fired. Hiram, she stated, recognized Edmonds and called him by name.

Attacked With Axe

She said she sprang out of bed and attempted to attack the murderer with an axe. She either dropped this or he took it from her. When she began screaming the man left the house. Neighbors came in, Mary Sneed, colored, being the first. Mrs. Honeycutt stated that she told no one except Policeman Bill White that Edmonds did the shooting.

She told of Edmonds's visit to her house Friday morning stating that he asked Honeycutt to help him hootleg. She said he was drinking. He told them, she stated, that he had made a good run on the previous night and also on the night before that.

Speaking of her former acquaintance with Edmonds, she said he had boarded at their house some years ago. He always treated us very nice," she said adding that there never had been any trouble between them.

On cross examination, she admitted that Honeycutt was near-sighted, that she often had to put food in his plate while he was eating. She stated, with out being asked, that he could always recognize a voice.

Was Afraid of Edmonds

Asked why she did not emphatically state Edmonds did the shooting immediately after the occurrence, she said that she was not certain the deendant was in custody and that she was afraid of him. She denied testifying on the examining trial that she received divine guidance in the matter of establishing the identity of the murderer.

She was not badly confused during the cross examination efforts were made by the counsel to bring out statements incriminating another person though most of this was excluded as incompetent testimony.

Charles Dawson testifying this morning stated that he had ridden on the bus with Edmonds on the previous day. He testified that Edmonds told him "then that he had been in jail recently," on the home coming, invitation list and each will receive a personal invitation to come in time.

After these invitations have been sent out, the cards for the district by counties and all of the names and addresses of each county's wintermen and daughters assembled by the headquarters office will be turned over to their home county's organization which can then follow up the general invitation with one from all absentees own home folk.

We are determined that Bell cannot show up well in the time running and I hope eventually in the county will send in many names and addresses at once. If each family will report on its own absent members we can be sure that we are overlooking nobody.

Lists of names and addresses should be sent to Mr. Downing, at Homecoming headquarters, the Armory, Sixth and Walnut streets, Louisville, Ky.
